Some of them are plain enough. It is clear that in conditions of great debility there must be no further reduction of strength; an irritated cerebrum must not be excited; hemorrhages, peritonitis, dysentery, perityphlitis require absolute rest; a hyperaesthetic stomach must not be overfed; a gastro-enteritis resulting from the presence of ferments must do without milk; convalescence and acute inflammatory fevers must be protected. Still, there are chronic fevers with fair digestion, which permit of generous feeding. All these indications and rules are equally valid for both the adult and the young. Still, the latter have some peculiarities which alter the application of general rules to a considerable extent, for several reasons. Of these I shall mention but a few in this connection. Habits, which play an all-important part in...
