Excerpt: . . . 11 way to accomplish this is notby reaching to other departments, it is when the Sec-retary can immediately order assistance from all of the elements and capabilities 19 of the entire Department of Homeland Security. Finally, it is important to discuss DHS grants and their importance to the emergenmanagement community. When FEMA initially joined DHS, many of its grants functions were transferred to other parts of DHS. Since Hurricane Katrina, FEMA administers almost all DHS grants, both those focused on natural hazards and those focused on terrorism. Pulling FEMA out of DHS would almost certainly disrupt grants function in the short term, and it could result in once again sepa-rating out emergency management grants from terrorism grants, which we know from experience leads to inefficiency, duplication, and waste. The synergies that have been realized in homeland security grants should be an important consider-ation when degating the merits of removing FEMA from DHS. Preparedness and...
